

30 Cozy Home Office Decor Ideas

Up your productivity and your style game with these designer tricks.

Dec 15, 2020

Carving out a home office that not only inspires creativity, but also helps you reach peak productivity when you're working from your house can be relatively easy. And it doesn't require a dedicated room or ample square footage either. When you're thinking about layout ideas, get creative with the space you already have—even if that means making use of a spare corner in your bedroom or an unused closet.

Don't be afraid to make the space feel more cozy

Though you likely won't reach peak productivity perched on your bed, you don't have to design a sterile space, either. "I love to give all offices a cozy feel by using lamps with a warm glow (2700k color temperature) and by adding other homey touches, such as candles, plants, and soft things like throw pillows and blankets," says Tracy Morris of Tracy Morris Design.
